A D V E R T I S E M E N T.

THE NATIONAL MUSIC of SCOTLAND is now universally admired. — The beautiful Simplicity of the Melodies, and the Artlessness of their Construction, afford unquestionable Proof that they derive their Origin from very remote Antiquity.

Many detached Collections of the SCOTTISH MUSIC have from Time to Time been made, but with so little Regard to Accuracy, that few of them deserve a Place in the Library either of the Professor or of the Amateur.

With a View to preserve those invaluable Melodies in a more entire form, the present Work was undertaken; and the Editor hopes he shall be able to execute it in such a Manner as to do Justice to the Subject, and Credit to himself. In the Musical Department, he is happy in announcing the assistance of many Gentlemen, distinguished for their Knowledge and Taste in that Species of Music.

The DISSERTATION is the Production of a Gentleman well known in the literary World, to whom the Editor acknowledges himself much indebted, as it enables him to enrich the Work with the most ingenious Essay that has hitherto been written on the Subject, which he doubts not will be highly acceptable to the Subscribers, and to the Public in general.
